

Barrington, IL restaurants who serve food and beverages to dine in customers will lose revenue if the climate control conditions within the restaurant are not comfortable. Customer initial presentation when they walk in the door are important. Customers will walk in the restaurant, notice an uncontrolled environment, and head to another restaurant location where they have cooling comfort. Sometimes budgets prevent the manager from implementing the entire cooling plan which can be costly. In this temporary cooling application, a section of the restaurant seating was closed to accommodate the budget. Depending on the urgency of temporary AC, installation of the AC often takes place when the restaurant is closed. Routing of exhaust ducts or water hoses can be extensive to avoid trip hazards. No matter what, we at "Rent AC" will accommodate your installation schedule.
